In Celebration of Life

Thomas Leon Espinosa, Sr.

“I’m sorry that I had to leave you. A distant voice called me away. There was so much left for us to share, so much we never got to say, but that is for another time, another day.”

But all my pain is behind me, my confusion finally laid to rest. I hope my life here had reason and can be an answer to your life’s test.

Some will say I died too early, but I’m glad that I lived as far as I could. I lived life the way I thought I should and always looked for something good.

As I look down upon you now, my prayers for you are still so strong, until the time when we are reunited where our spirits belong, please live your lives and continue to learn from the wrong.

Don’t cry for me, I have only begun to live the true life and risen beyond this world of hurt and fear. Hold my friendship in your memory, and always know that I am near. I know these recent moments have been a struggle. Dry your eyes, and carry on. Remember me, for through your lives, my Spirit will live on.
