A letter from Harley's Son:

My Dad was such a good man and amazing father that I could have. His personality and his laugh could make anyone's day. It was always funny to see him joke with his brother and sisters. My Dad's golf game wasn't so great, but it wasn't so bad either. I would always laugh when he would always go to the left. That was his famous move and his golfing partners just tease the heck out of him. The only time he was good at golf was on the Wii. Music was a big thing for him and we all knew that, with him just blasting rock and roll in his truck with his sunglasses on. I remember he told me everyone said he look like Keanu Reeves. I didn't believe that until I got a little older. He would always do some John Wick moves. I am sure going to miss my Dad. I think we all will. Nobody could be the cool person he was. I now realize that he was my hero and he was Superman all along like he said and Clark Kent with his glasses. I love him. I know we all did. He was something special and I am glad I got to see him one last time.
